Jamie Sybert has more than 25 years of experience in government contract cost accounting, pricing, business system compliance, and administration.

She has participated in investigations and mandatory disclosures with internal and external counsel. These have involved forensic accounting, employee interviews, research of alleged fraud or mischarging, and presentation of findings to company senior management and government officials.

Jamie has a broad background of advisory experience regarding compliance with the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR), Defense Federal Acquisition Regulation Supplement (DFARS), Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circulars, Cost Accounting Standards (CAS) and alleged non-compliance, and other government acquisition regulations. She has firsthand experience negotiating cost accounting practice changes, external restructuring proposals, termination settlement proposals (TSPs), and indirect cost rate agreements.

Jamie's expertise includes strategic planning, risk mitigation, internal controls development, business process audits, government regulatory compliance frameworks, ERP implementations, program finance transformation, and contract life cycle support. She advises clients regarding matters ranging from design and development of cost allocation structures and disputing allocations of defective pricing to solicitations, change notices, and contract price adjustments.
